How Much Time Should We Spend With God?

The answer is: what ever it takes.

Most of us would probably agree that it is important to spend “quality” time with God. This might bring about a discussion, such as: “What is quality time? and how much time?” The reality is that either question can be answered in many ways, and the answers may all be correct. Which brings us back to the original question, and so the circle continues.

Maybe rather than, trying to answer the question it's better being deliberate about spending the time. That is to say, unless we are already engaged in routine quality time with God, we need to begin and begin now. All of us can “carve” out 10 – 15 minutes daily, or at least twice a week to be alone with God. We only have to begin, and keep doing it. Who knows where God will take us, but let's find out.

Peace,
Gordon+
